

MASH PORRINI

Barley and oats have always played an important part in equine nutrition. Thanks to their ability to absorb water, when cooked barley and oats improve intestinal health and act as an aid to immediate and delayed isotonic rehydration. In addition to the benefits of a traditional mash, Porrini Mash ensures the nutritional content of linseed, the advantages of a well-functioning gut offered by bran, and the protective action against gastrointestinal inflammation of oils and yeasts.

Fed in winter as a natural pick-me-up and in summer to replenish electrolytes and combat fatigue, it is an optimum feed during convalescence and long journeys.
